Living In The Moment

When are the times you appreciate the chatter in your head?

When are the times when you feel mindfulness would benefit you?

What are some ideas you have for times when you can infuse mindfulness in your day?